For the AGM April 16, 2025.

Preserving Our Family Histories for Future Generations

Our ancestors—whether Indigenous, settler descendants, newer generations, or recent Canadians—have all contributed to the rich history of our communities. Each of us carries important stories that deserve to be told. Historians seek the truth, striving to understand what really happened and how people have worked together over time. We share a common past, woven together through generations. Consider this: each of us has two grandmothers, four great-grandmothers, eight great-great-grandmothers, and so on—each with their own unique stories waiting to be remembered.

Every family needs both storytellers and story keepers. The Glencoe & District Historical Society encourages families to record their histories—write down stories, label the backs of photographs, and document the details that future generations will cherish.

Some families are fortunate to collaborate with authors like CJ Frederick, who transform family histories into engaging historical novels. Others use platforms like Remento or StoryWorth to compile family memories into beautifully bound books that can be passed down for generations. Online genealogy tools such as Ancestry.ca have also made it easier than ever to trace our roots.

Many families bring their archives and precious artifacts to the Historical Society for safekeeping. In today's digital world, we recognize what a treasure trove these collections are. While digitization allows for easy sharing, it does not guarantee long-term preservation. Whether in digital or physical form, historical records are always at risk. By working together to protect and document our shared past, we ensure that future generations will have access to the rich stories that shape our community.

These are our aims for 2024/2026:

- Connect with membership and build close, working relationships with all our local groups, our regional heritage groups, and the elected reps and staff people of Southwest Middlesex and County of Middlesex.
- Ramp up our outreach and channels. Mobilize an IT circle to support improved communication and decision-making.
- Digitize and record our stories, curate, preserve, upload, and share. Figure out better platforms for working together. Facebook groups don't cut it.
- Learn the tools offered by dynamic governance, and the flourishing business canvas
- Bring our elders and youth together. Tell all the stories. 10,000 years of local history. Place making.
- Build a cultural network to link history with tourism. Nurture and support the arts in heritage and cultural communities.
- Lead the interactive Barn Quilt Trail project, which features an alliance of four organizations plus FedDev Government of Canada, the funder. Link our cultural assets to local tourism strategies and investments. Work with Middlesex county tourism.
- Advocate for county archives. Interpret history along the Thames river Watershed arts corridor
- Invite skilled local people and support their history passions. Build teams around peoples' interest. Assign domains. Delegate authority.
- Update and revise our bylaws. Build a closer working relationship with the Ontario Historical Society.
- Build out our organizational structure. We have a great foundation in our bylaws featuring managers. Build a circular hierarchy to support workers, facilitators, leaders, and admin support.
- Engage the branding dream team to do an agile branding process for G&DHS, the interactive Barn Quilt Trail, and our various groups and projects that need a brand
- Figure out how to tell our amazing stories, make sure they are preserved and interpret the amazing history of Ontario Southwest, that we want to share with family, friends, community, travelers, guests, youth, new, Canadians, refugees, children, all of the people that make up our Rural society people.

Working towards a County Archives

G&DHS is a member of the Committee to Establish a Middlesex County Archives and we continue to educate and lobby County representatives of the importance of doing their part to preserve our social and cultural history. Middlesex County has no official mechanism for the preservation, storage and archiving of historical documents and artifacts, both public and private.

As the older generation transfers family histories, photos, and records to the next generation, much ends up in dumpsters. Middlesex County is one of a few counties in southern Ontario that does not have a County Archive. This means that the responsibility falls to volunteers and we need help.

Ken Willis and The Wardsville Museum

Link to Ken Willis' remarks in early December, 2025. Link to Denise Corneil's remarks to Southwest Middlesex Council April 9, 2025.

For over two decades, Ken Willis, Wardsville's Official Historian, has dedicated himself to preserving Wardsville's history, curating a collection donated by residents that tells the story of Wardsville and its people. The Wardsville Museum houses this collection of artifacts and stories that showcase Wardsville and Mosa's rich history.

On March 13th, the Glencoe and District Historical Society (GDHS) formally accepted the role of custodian for the Ken Willis Collection, which is housed at the Wardsville Museum, located at 1787 Longwoods Rd, Wardsville, ON N0L 2N0.

History of Wardsville Musuem

The Wardsville Museum holds deep historical and cultural value, but it currently faces significant infrastructure challenges:

- No running water or bathroom facilities, limiting its functionality and accessibility for visitors.
- Lack of wheelchair accessibility, making it difficult for all community members to enjoy.

We worry that these limitations leave the museum vulnerable to being considered "less viable for public use"—a concern given Southwest Middlesex's past decisions regarding historic buildings.

Following municipal amalgamation in 2000, which merged Glencoe, Appin, Melbourne, Wardsville, Mosa, and Ekfrid Townships into the newly formed Municipality of Southwest Middlesex (SWM), municipal officials began assessing buildings that were outdated and required significant investment to meet modern standards.

Among the casualties was the Wardsville Community Hall, once the heart of the community, with its wood floors, stage, and historic charm. It contained washrooms that served Little Kin Park. Despite its historical and functional value, the hall was put up for sale by public tender with a closing date of June 6, 2001, and ownership was transferred to a new owner.

To preserve a local gathering place, the municipality partnered with the Hammond Masonic Lodge, designating the Wardsville Masonic Hall as the new community center. In 2023, the Wardsville Hammond Masons "went dark,". In 2025 the Masonic Hall was gifted to Southwest Middlesex.

HERITAGE PLAQUE SIGNS

Twelve aluminum signs have been installed on houses, farms, and businesses in Glencoe, Caradoc, Mosa and Ekfrid. They are 11" X 16" in bronze or silver aluminum and cost $150. Significant research by Harold Carruthers is required to determine facts about the properties. Contact research@glencoehistoricalsociety.ca if you would like to commission a sign for your property.

Houses: Information includes the year the house was built, the first owner's name and occupation, the builder's name, and the heritage location (original address).

Businesses: Name of business, architect, heritage location, and name of the builder.

Farm: original owner of the 100 acres, the builder/owner of the first house, year house was built and heritage location.

Cemetery Signs.

Thirty eight signs have been installed within SWM, and three outside of SWM, but within our District. Hykut Signs was our local manufacturer. These standardized signs show the name of area cemeteries and when they were established. We have identified and signed the forgotten ones also, so that our pioneer ancestors will be remembered. This year, we concluded this project by getting these signs installed. Our partnership with the Municipality of Southwest Middlesex allowed this to happen. Our Society funded the manufacture of the signs and SWM covered the installation.

Find A Grave

Ken Beecroft, Gerry Cross and other enthusiasts in the district assist with the Find A Grave.com website database. Find A Grave is a worldwide collection site developed to identify and document those who have gone before us. This initiative depends upon knowledgeable volunteers who share a passion for history. Identifying the individuals who make up history, especially local history is by no means an easy matter. Find A Grave volunteers have identified, pinpointed and defined over half a million cemeteries worldwide.

Ken Beecroft focuses on Find A Grave data development in the G&DHS geographic area, which dovetails well with cemetery and family research information onhand in the Archives. Obituary information used to be painstakingly gathered by volunteers but now it can be entered locally into this huge on-line data base and accessed by descendants from anywhere in the world. A great genealogical tool indeed.

Facebook moderator and Curator of the Glencoe Transcript Archives

Marie Williams has been actively involved in heritage projects, including the murals and house signs, working with Harold and Rick at Hykut Signs to ensure historical accuracy and clarity in the details.

She collaborated with Harold on organizing and promoting the Peter McArthur events, designed event posters for the Society's monthly meetings, and contributed to online event promotions. She also prepared display boards for both the arena anniversary and the Peter McArthur event.

Marie regularly photographs meetings and events to document and share the Society's activities.

Facebook Engagement

Marie Williams manages the The Glencoe and District Historical Society Facebook Page which has 1.1K followers, ensuring a minimum of two historical posts per week. Yearbook posts are particularly well-received, along with historical research compiled from the Glencoe Transcript, London Free Press, and other sources. She also collaborates with Harold on historical posts, which inspired her to create dedicated content for Burns Presbyterian Church Mosa in a Facebook Group. .

In a recent 28-day period, the Society's Facebook page achieved the following:

Heritage Mural Project.

In 2022, G&DHS was initially approved for a Grant from Middlesex County, the “Makeover Middlesex 2022” program, which paid for the mural signs. The historical society funded the installations.

We have plans for more murals in Appin, Melbourne, and Wardsville and need to find sponsors. Harold Carruthers is coordinating. Current locations are:

Roots and Neighbours Community Summit

We want to work with SWM and all the organizations in our District on building collaborative working relationships. Sometime in 2026, we hope to meet at the “Roots and Neighbours Community Summit” to strategize to make the most of scarce resources and have fun doing it.

Working with Municipality of Southwest Middlesex

We have an elected Council that appreciates the history and cultural heritage. On December 10th we shared Christmas refreshments and met with elected representatives and staff. And on April 9, 2025, we attended Council to thank the taxpayers of SWM formally for their support.

Because of taxpayer support, G&DHS gives a safe home to documents, photographs and artifacts of local historical significance, which have been donated to us by area residents and Society members. The Archives has room for meetings, restoration workshop, a sales area, an office, stacks for books, documents and artifacts along with special collections, microfilm library, and archival space for artifacts.

Due to the commitment of Harold Carruthers, Irene Mathyson, and the Society during the 1990s, instead of being shredded after being digitized by the Ontario Government, our precious property records have made their way home to the original Registry Office, which we now call "The Vault".

We share this space with the community. This wonderful facility, The Archives, allows us to host educational activities onsite. We have everything available –access, washrooms, seating capacity, wifi, parking - the only thing we are missing is a kitchenette.

G&DHS and the Municipality of Southwest Middlesex have an agreement for the stewardship of 178 McKellar Street. In March 2025, we met with municipal staff to clarify responsibilities for the building and grounds.

We share The Archives with other community organizations. Organizations such as local cemetery boards, such as Oakland and Eddie, and Southwest Middlesex’ “Celebrate Community Committee” have conducted their routine members’ meetings at 178 McKellar Street.

Southwestern Ontario's barn quilts

The barn quilts—vibrant artworks adorning barns—continue to captivate travelers, yet their origins and connections to local history remain unknown to many.

In 2024, four groups applied to the Tourism Growth Fund to transform the Barn Quilt Trails into a tourism experience: Glencoe & District Historical Society; Creative Communities - stewards of Barnquilttrails.ca; Chippewa of the Thames cultural group; and EXAR Studios. While the request was unsuccessful, the Glencoe & District Historical Society remains committed to supporting barn quilts.

This year, efforts will focus on revitalizing the Native Women's Trail of Tears Barn Quilt Trail and sustaining BarnQuiltTrails.ca, the national barn quilt database.

IT Operation Annual Update

Over the past year, we have made several enhancements to support the society's operations through the strategic use of IT tools. These improvements have streamlined communications, increased accessibility, and improved overall efficiency for our volunteers and executive team.

1. Back-Office Improvements with IT Tools

Cybersecurity Awareness

All executive members completed a cybersecurity training program via an online video series, strengthening our awareness of digital safety practices.

Google for Nonprofits Integration

- Meeting Documentation:
All meeting minutes are now created in Google Docs and stored in our Shared Google Drive. Executive members can securely access them anytime, from any device.
- Contact Management:
We now manage current, past, and prospective member contact lists through Google Contacts, enabling efficient and organized communication for newsletters and announcements.
- Research Email Address:
A dedicated email, research@glencoehistoricalsociety.ca, was established to centralize and better manage research requests and inquiries.
- Shared Contacts Access:
We subscribed to a Shared Contacts service, allowing volunteers who handle email correspondence to access a common list of contact information.

Volunteer Scheduling

- Volunteer schedules are now maintained in a shared Google Calendar, which is viewable from our official website. A printable version of the calendar is also available thanks to a new feature in Google Calendar.

2. Hardware and Device Updates

- A Windows 11 laptop was set up, and all files from older computers have been safely backed up to Google Drive.
- A donated Apple desktop computer has been configured and made available for volunteer use.

3. Enhancing Virtual Engagement

- We purchased a Zoom Pro license to continue offering online and hybrid events. This has been instrumental in maintaining accessibility and participation.

- The AI-powered assistant features in Zoom have also helped streamline the process of taking meeting minutes by providing automatic summaries.

4. Capacity Building and Support

- Training Sessions: Hands-on IT training sessions were provided to executive members during meetings to ensure everyone can confidently navigate our digital tools.
- Tech Support Drop-ins: We launched an open Tech Support Drop-in service during society opening hours, offering assistance to volunteers and members needing help with devices, email, or online tools.

These improvements reflect our ongoing commitment to operational efficiency, digital inclusivity, and support for both our volunteers and members. As technology continues to evolve, we will remain dedicated to adopting practical and cost-effective tools that support the society's mission.

5. The Website

Mary Simpson and Tyler Thomson maintain the Wordpress website which continues to grow with local historical content.

February 22, 2024, we kicked off a year long tribute to our local sage, Peter McArthur. Joining from Ireland, guest speaker Stephanie McDonald, described McArthur's life and works, focussing on the last 16 years of his life after he moved back to the home farm in Ekfrid Township.

Another long- time McArthur enthusiast, Don Sinclair closed the afternoon event, speaking about his connection to McArthur through the home farm and, in particular, the demonstration woodlot where McArthur wrote about his unique appreciation for rural life and nature.

There were interactive stations, educational booths and book signings. We learned about wartime livelihoods: Rationing, Red Cross Efforts, Farmerettes, Entertainment, the Miss War Worker Pageant, and a Wartime Wedding.

May 29, 2024 The Famous Five presented by the London Women's History Project at Tait's Corners Community Centre. Set in Edmonton during the Great War, we saw the Famous Five return from a protest march to drink tea and discuss their cause and the war. Prime Minister, Robert Borden is in Edmonton and they must speak up.

Edmontonian Emily Murphy became the first female judge in the Commonwealth on January 1, 1916. On her first day in court and frequently thereafter, lawyers would begin their presentation by objecting to having their case heard by a woman judge because, they said, women were not "persons" as defined by the British North America Act of 1867.

Luckily for the women of Alberta, in 1917 the ruling by a Calgary judge, Alice Jamieson, was upheld by the Supreme Court of Alberta, thereby establishing the principle that both men and women were persons and therefore equals.

June 16, 2024. Peter McArthur. The "Haunts of Peter McArthur" road trip Sunday afternoon, We started out at what was the McArthur homestead on McArthur Rd. before moving onto the Eddie Cemetery on Glendon Dr. and finally back to the Archives in Glencoe.

After numerous visitors made their way to the Archives throughout the morning, a ceremony was held at 1:00 pm, celebrating the 150th anniversary of the incorporation of the Village of Glencoe, the belated 200th anniversaries of the Townships of Mosa and Ekfrid, the 170th anniversary of arrival of the first train in Glencoe.

G&DHS also had a booth near the Glencoe Train Station beside the Old Auto magazine. Author CJ Frederick joined the booth offering local readers a sneak peak to her first full length historical fiction novel, Rooted & Remembered. The author's parents and husband were on hand to help CJ Frederick get this new book into the hands of readers.

July 28, 2024: - Appin Cemetery Commemoration

Every July we take time to honour those who came before us by conducting Memorial Service at an area cemetery. This past year it was held at Appin Cemetery, Ekfrid Township, where we enjoyed a beautiful Sunday afternoon under the shade, with about 40 people present. It was noted that the cemetery was very well maintained. The history of the Cemetery was provided by James May along with several Cemetery Board members and G&DHS members. After the Memorial, folks toured the cemetery. We are planning this event for July 2025 for Simpson Cemetery in Mosa Township. Link to event report.

August 21, 2024: McEachren Collection at Forty-87 Well over 100 visitors, including members of the Glencoe and District Historical Society, neighbours, community members and John Deere enthusiasts from far and wide, gathered at the home of Dave McEachren on Olde Dr. on Wednesday evening, August 21.

After self-guided tours of his outdoor displays, Dave spoke to the crowd explaining that, at age 10, he had first become involved in the Glencoe Fair farm toy competition. He recalled buying his "first toy that he didn't play with" from Tips. Following the advice of his uncle, he chose to focus on one thing to collect and he chose John Deere. His focus grew from toys to signs, memorabilia, tractors and other equipment.

Heritage Farm Show, September Labour Day Weekend – Backus Page House Annual Farm Heritage weekend. Thanks to our volunteers, we were able to provide our travelling display inside the agricultural museum for the two day event. This certainly a worthwhile event for families. G&DHS has made a commitment to support this event every year.

Author and storyteller Bob Gentleman signed his new book, "They Settled in Riverside," and presented a copy to Ina Nelms for The Archives in Glencoe.

Gail McHardy-Leitch showed off her sunflower quilt block, painted at the Crazy 8 Barn, to barn quilt enthusiast Denise Corneil at the Heritage Farm Show.

Meet our Executive

President, Mary Simpson: Mary is a champion for collaboration and is intent on inviting the younger generations into culture and heritage spaces. She enjoys networking with our sister organizations and identifying speakers and activities for future programs. She is half way through her two year term and is actively seeking people who have a passion for local history to join the fun at the Society.

Vice President, Norm McGill: “Growing up in West Lorne after WWII, there were so many different veterans from different wars and eras and some of them told their stories. I always liked the old artifacts. Objects help us remember people and places. A lot of my personal collection is family and local – not expensive articles – but objects that become treasures as the years pass”. Past President, Ken Beecroft: This position provides continuity and transition from President and past president acts in the President’s absence. Through 2023-24, G&DHS continued with on-going agenda items, allowing Past President duties to encompass “house projects”. Honouring Lorne Munro

We miss Lorne. We lost Lorne at Strathroy Middlesex General Hospital on Monday, March 18, 2024 William “Lorne” Munro passed away in his 91st year. Predeceased by his wife Phyllis (2023). Dear father to Janice and Tom McCallum, Susan Sinclair and Steve Schneider and Cheryl and Roy Neves.

Objects of G&DHS

📄 By-laws and Constitution

Founded in 1978, the Glencoe & District Historical Society (G&DHS) set out on a mission to preserve the rich history of Southwestern Ontario, particularly around the Glencoe area. Ambitious projects, such as mapping local cemeteries, took place from 1978 to 1988. In 1983, G&DHS found a home in the basement of the old Andrew Carnegie Library and expanded to both floors in 1994. A substantial collection of land registry deeds was rescued in 1997, finding a secure home in the original land registry vault. The partnership restoration of the Glencoe Train Station in 2001 became a symbol of the society's commitment to preserving local heritage. The Society is a not-for-profit volunteer organization with charitable status and a member of the Ontario Historical Society.

The 2018 relocation of the Glencoe library allowed the Society to shift to the old land registry office and library at 178 McKellar Street, inadvertently returning the land deed collection to its original home, now known as The Archives. Facing the challenge of preserving historical materials in a digital world, G&DHS actively educates and lobbies for administrative and archival support, supported by a membership of almost 100 individuals and backing from the Municipality of Southwest Middlesex.

Our objectives are:

- To promote, encourage and foster the study of local history and genealogy, including original research. We encourage, support and solicit research information on heritage buildings in our District. We lend our support to other community groups who are active and interested in the preservation and restoration of heritage buildings.
- To provide and maintain a local archival repository for the collection and preservation of books, manuscripts, typescripts, charts, maps, photographs, journals, Photostats, microfilms, tapes and artifacts.
- To reproduce some of the presentations presented to the Society, as well as other research and materials.
- To provide education through newsletters, presentations, social media and participation in local and surrounding area events.

The Society actively collects and preserves local artifacts, showcasing rotating displays and a captivating train display on Main Street.

Operating three days a week, G&DHS opens its doors to the public, offering free access to historical materials. Marie Williams maintains a popular Facebook Page featuring local photos and history from the Transcript and Free Press archives. An up-to-date website features reports of our events, photos, videos, and history vignettes.

G&DHS actively supports neighboring heritage organizations. We work together to foster an appreciation for Southwestern Ontario's rich history.
